HAITI SITUATION BADLY TANGLED

Gen. Bobo, Rebel Leader, Is Said to Be Marching Toward Port au Prince.

MAY CLAIM PRESIDENCY

Administration Here Has Not Reached Definite Decision as to Action to Be Taken.

With American forces in occupation of the capital of Haiti and also in possession of the second most important city, Cape Haïtien, the situation in the republic remains confused.

According to official advices here yesterday, Gen. Bobo, the rebel leader in Haiti, is now marching with considerable forces in the direction of Port au Prince. All the northern region has been won by him to his support, and it seems certain that on arrival at Port au Prince he will demand the presidency, particularly as a committee of Haitians in the capital has declared for him.

On the other hand, the administration has not yet made any decision as to what is to be done in Haiti. The situation has been under constant consideration for ten days and Admiral Caperton has been occupying Port au Prince for a week, but it has not yet been determined in Washington just what shall be done. While the attitude of Admiral Caperton and the American forces is regarded by most of the disinterested Haitians as most considerate, there is constant pressure upon him to make known a definite program of the United States' intentions. The admiral, however, has been able to give no assurance of any kind as to whether the American occupation is to be merely temporary, or is to continue until some permanent arrangement has been made for maintaining stable conditions in Haiti.

May Spread to Santo Domingo.

Meanwhile, pending a decision as to Haiti, there are indications that the disturbance will spread across the island into Santo Domingo. It became known yesterday that Gen. Bobo, who commanded the forces of the former government in the north, has started for Monte Cristi, Dominican Republic. It is believed here that he will attempt to obtain arms and men in the Dominican Republic, in the hope of returning to Haiti and resuming the contest for control of the government.

Officials fear that the result of his expedition to Santo Domingo may be demoralizing. Yesterday reports were received that the political unrest in Santo Domingo is growing, and that riots have broken out in some parts of the republic. Six weeks ago there was a threat of trouble in Santo Domingo City, and the cruiser Nashville was sent there.

The disturbance apprehended did not occur at that time, but since then the Nashville has been withdrawn, to take part in the operations in Haiti, and officials here would be surprised at no development, unless such decisive action is taken in Haiti as will convince the Dominican faction that the Washington government means to keep absolute peace on the island. At present Santo Domingo is governed by a compromise government, set up through Washington influence, and all reports agree that the coalition is not a success.

Promise to Disarm.

It developed yesterday that Gen. Bobo was not personally in command of the forces which attempted to enter Cape Haïtien Wednesday and were kept out of the city only by shell fire from the American command. The Haitian forces were in command of Bobo's representatives. Since being shelled by the Eagle, these forces have promised to disarm. It was stated yesterday that the Haitian forces have promised to disarm, and that the American forces have promised to disarm.

Special Correspondent of The Washington Herald.

New York, Aug. 5.—There are two young men in New York who make their living in an odd way. They hire out as heros for movie trials. When the regular leading actor balks at circus stunts, the director calls in Edward Gordon and John Austin, whose favorite outdoor sport is riding motorcycles over high cliffs and open drawbridges.

The thrill makers at one time followed the perilous occupation of ascending in balloons at country fairs. As their courage grew they came to New York and found a ready market for the new. Austin has descended the side of the Hudson Equitable Building hand over hand on a rope. He also, while playing the part of an escaping convict, leaped from a ferry boat into the floating ice of the Hudson last winter.

Gordon and Austin are educated, steady and abstemious. They say that the temptations demand thrills. Monotony is the bane of their existence and adventure is the relish with which they flavor life.

The two-dollar "movie" has also arrived. The Knickerbocker Theater, long known as the society theater, because of its pretentious productions, has been secured by a syndicate that will put on straight two-dollar "movie" shows and the audience will dress as they would for the opera.

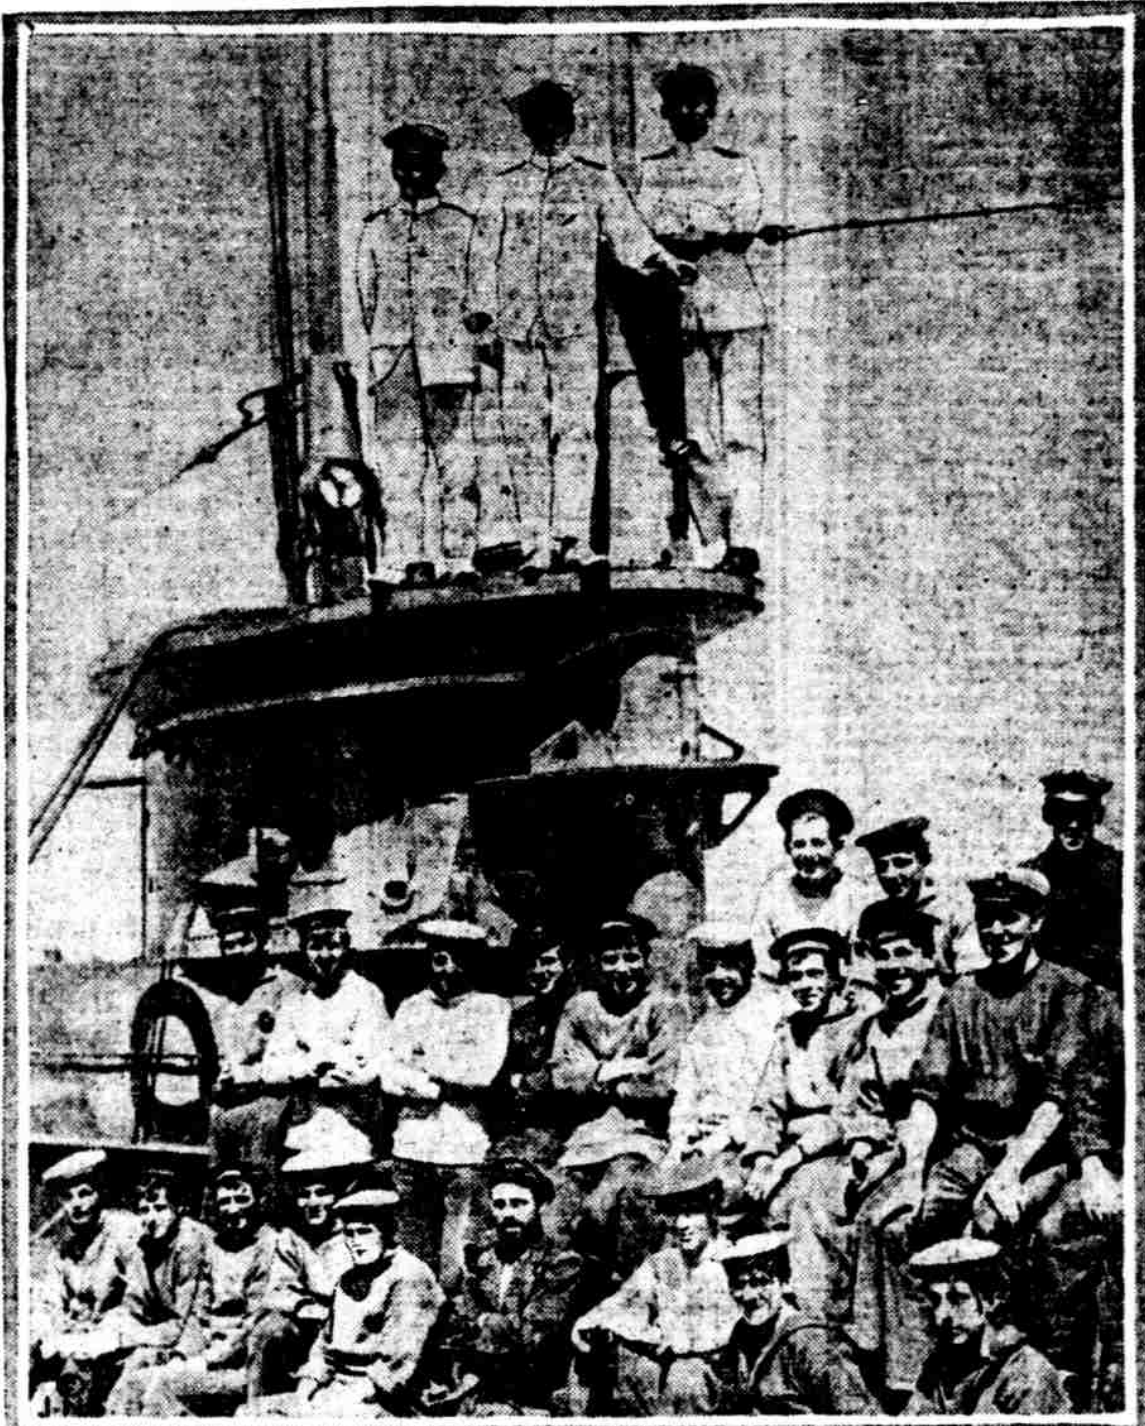

The Kind Words Club has been organized. Anybody can join. Bishop Charles D. Williams, of Michigan, who is spending a month in New York, is sponsor and supporter of the new organization. The club members are pledged to speak or write a word of praise, whenever a kind, courteous or polite act comes under their observation.

If a member of the club sees a conductor help an aged lady to alight from a street car, it is his duty to compliment the railway employee. If a policeman is polite to a stranger or performs some similar act of courtesy, it is the duty of the member to write a letter to his newspaper about it.

Fall from Train Fatal.

Philadelphia, Aug. 5.—Robert Wilson, 55 years old, of Havre de Grace, Md., died today at the University Hospital here of injuries sustained when he fell from the platform of an express train at Atlantic City. The body was taken back to Havre de Grace today by the widow and two daughters, who witnessed the accident.

ADVENTUROUS CREW OF BRITISH SUBMARINE

The picture shows the crew of the British submarine E-II, posed on the deck and conning tower of their vessel. This crew took the submarine through the Dardanelles into the Sea of Marmora, where they caused serious damage to Turkish shipping, sinking several transports and a gunboat. The E-II is one of the newest British submarines and has a submerged displacement of 810 tons.

Her periscope was punctured by a well-directed shot from a Turkish gun, but a little shatter at the base of the periscope cut off the inflow of water and saved the crew, but this "eye" was blind thereafter and the second periscope was used for navigation purposes. The figure in the center above is Lieut. Commander Martin E. Nashmuth, V. C., with Lieut. Guy d'Oyly-Hughes, D. S. M., and Acting Lieut. Robert Brown, D. S. M., Royal Naval Reserve, on either side.

Sketches of Little OLD NEW YORK by M. McIntyre

In short, it is the aim of the club to recognize kind acts whenever they are performed.

The swan song of a race is revealed in the census count of 4,611 Indians in New York against 5,000 in 1905. Few are full bred. In the North their veins carry pale face blood, and on Long Island they are almost negroes.

Before the white man came the Central New York Indian was among the finest of his race. A high civilization marked his long houses and well-tilled fields, and his political keenness prefigured the Seymours, Marrys, and Fentons who were to follow.

He held the passes from the Hudson by Woods Creek to Lake Champlain, and from the Mohawk by Oneida Lake to Ontario and the interior—the routes later used by the canal and railroads that made the Empire State.

Broadway's newest drink—nonintoxicating, of course—is called a "Cool Quick." Here is the way to make it: Take one large tumbler half filled with ice, the juice from half a lime, fill with ginger ale, and after stirring it well, decorate with mint leaves and a slice of lime. It is in its beverages, but somehow it has taken to the new invention of the mixologist. If you have never indulged, take it home and try it on the refrigerator. It's harmless, anyway.

Another typical New York romance has just become public. It concerns the romantic transfer of Myrtle Higgins, a poor girl, from a hall room to the St. Regis hotel suite. In an incidental manner Miss Higgins met Col. Billy Rowe, Jr., a well known about town. There was quite a difference in their ages, but Col. Rowe won her over. And so they were married.

John Wanamaker has opened an athletic field on the roof of his huge Philadelphia store, making his seventy-seventh birthday occasion for the event. Wanamaker clerks will hereafter start off at a dead sprint when customers mention twenty yards or so.

TREATY COVERS DISPUTE WITH GREAT BRITAIN

Matter of Rights of Neutral Commerce May Be Settled Under Wilson-Bryan Pact.

The important admission was made yesterday by high government officials that the Wilson-Bryan treaty of investigation and inquiry covers as a means of final adjustment all the disputes between the United States and Great Britain relating to the rights of neutral commerce.

This admission indicates clearly the present trend of opinion of the administration on the apparent ultimatum in Great Britain's notes published. In those notes Great Britain announced in effect that she will proceed under her own conception of international law and that the remedy of the United States would be arbitration.

The probability of ultimate settlement by some kind of arbitral court, however, has not interrupted the progress of the arguments now in preparation by the State Department in answer to the law proposition of Great Britain and her inferences from them in justification of her action.

It was stated yesterday at the Department that the progress which, however, has been made was merely interrupted by the avalanche of Britain's variations of her original position, but that the work of framing up a note to cover all points had not been seriously arrested.

POLICEMAN'S HEARING TODAY.

Charge Against Allen to Be Aired in Police Court.

A hearing will be given this morning in Police Court to Policeman Walter C. Allen, of the Tenth precinct, who is under arrest on a charge of having assaulted W. P. Hauptmann, of 101 West street northwest, about a week ago at the corner of Georgia avenue and Upshur street.

Hauptmann had alighted from a Georgia avenue car and was warning some children to get off the railway track, it is said, when some one struck him on the head, knocking him unconscious. Allen denies that he hit Hauptmann and declares he was not even present at the time of the assault.

LATIN AMERICA OFFERS SUPPORT

Republics Pledge Aid in Continuing Work of Pan-American Conference.

OPTIMISM IS REFLECTED

Presidents Are Hopeful Concerning Future Economic Relations of Americans.

Secretary McAdoo yesterday announced that pledges of cordial co-operation are being received from all the countries of Central and South America for the continuation of the work of the Pan-American Financial Conference. Each American republic is evincing deep interest in practical methods to take up the work where the conference left off, and thus establish closer and stronger financial and trade relations between the United States and Latin America.

This spirit of optimism in the future economic relations of the Americas is a result of the conference is reflected in cable correspondence between President Wilson and the presidents of the republics of Latin America. Impressed with the outcome of the conference, President Wilson cabled the president of each of the eighteen countries which participated in the meeting to express his appreciation of the United States government and his own thanks for the material aid of the success of the conference by the distinguished delegates from Latin America, and added:

"The patriotic and intelligent labors of this conference of leading men from our sister republics of Central and South America, will, I feel assured, bear early and beneficial fruits and lead to increased mutual prosperity."

Extracts from Replies.

Extracts from the replies of some of the Latin American executives follow: President V. de la Plaza, of Argentina: "I share the opinion of your excellency and confidently believe that the labors of the assembly will prove highly beneficial to the solidarity of the American republics, and stimulating the economic bonds necessary for their mutual development."

President Isabel Montes, of Bolivia: "I have the honor to express my thanks for the cordial welcome extended by your excellency and by your enlightened government to the delegation of Bolivia, and to give utterance to the confident belief I entertain as to the wholesome influence which the labors of the conference, intelligently carried out, will have on the relations and common prosperity of the three Americas."

President Veneciano Brás P. Gomes, of Brazil: "I congratulate your excellency most warmly on the success of the labors of the conference, which, I feel assured, will produce early and profitable results and lead to the greater prosperity of all the American republics."

Congratulations from Chile.

President Páez, of Colombia, of Chile: "On behalf of the government of Chile, I take pleasure in offering your excellency my most sincere congratulations for the success of the Pan-American Financial Conference recently held in Washington, and at which resolutions of such vast moment to the commercial and economic development of the nations of America were adopted."

President Leonides Plaza, of Ecuador: "My government, in sending its delegates to the conference of American financiers, felt certain that it would bear great fruit in establishing closer commercial relations among the nations of our continent. The favorable impressions of your excellency on the results attained are highly gratifying to me."

President Manuel Estrada Cabrera, of Guatemala: "I likewise take special pleasure in expressing my sincere congratulations to the government and people of the United States for the success attained by the conference, and for the beneficial results which we believe will, beyond doubt, soon flow from it and lead to increased mutual prosperity. My government and people were highly honored by your excellency's kind invitation to Guatemala to take part in the conference, and I share your excellency's good wishes that patriotic and intelligent labor of the nature referred to may crown its work and thus bring about an extension of commerce and of the magnificent relations which in this respect unite the countries of North, Central and South America."

Certain of Good Results.

President Benavides, of Peru: "I am certain that results beneficial to all the countries of America will be derived from the happy initiative of your excellency in calling a conference, which, in commenting the spirit of Pan-American solidarity, marks a new era in the economic development and prosperity of the continent."

President V. Marqués Bustillos, of Venezuela: "I trust that the final results of this conference, which was promoted and patronized by your excellency's noble government, will be worthy fruits of the high practical talent characterized by the great descendants of Washington, and I am sure that these mutual benefits, while being factors of prosperity, will also constitute a new and strong bond of solidarity between the sister republics of this continent."

THREATENED LIVES OF WILSON AND ROOSEVELT

Secret Service Agents Investigating Case of F. H. Juergens, Arrested at San Antonio.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 5.—Investigation was begun today by government secret service agents into the past life of F. H. Juergens, who was arrested last night, charged with threatening to take the lives of President Wilson and former President Roosevelt, and also the destruction of the National Capitol.

The chief object of the government detectives is to learn the names of Juergens' friends and to ascertain whether he acted alone or had associates in his letter-writing activities. The letter that led to his arrest was written on the stationery of a prominent business man and this man's name had been written at the bottom of it. It asserted that the writer was a member of an alliance of 150 men who could not rest until the United States observed absolute neutrality by stopping the shipment of war supplies to Europe.

Juergens is being held in $2,000 bail.
